

USC West Gathering November 2017 EVALUATION

Q1: Overall how would you rate our West Region 2017 gathering?

Answered: 35

Skipped: 0

Unsatisfactory	Below Expectations	Met Expectations	Exceeded Expectations	Outstanding	N/A	Total	Weighted Average

Q2: Prior to attending the November 2017 West Region gathering, what did you expect?

Answered: 31

Skipped: 4

- A well planned meeting with balance of prayer, time being together and organizational time.
- I did not have a lot of expectations. I did think we would spend time on the Chapter calls.
- Haven't been my favorite "indoor activity"
- I was looking forward to being together as West Region, sharing life, prayer, visioning and planning with honesty, joy and tenderness.
- I was not sure what to expect. Rumors of people being dissatisfied with the West Region structure, and others not even knowing that we even had a structure, led me to question how open people would be.
- Getting to connect with new and old faces
- I was unclear about what was going to happen.
- I really wasn't sure what exactly sure but I was hoping we would get a clearer idea of shared government.
- to make concrete and specific the Assembly pf 2017 in iscussions as far as we could to check the sense of region since last meeting is
- I was going for a deeper cor unum, which was met and some clarity as how to move ahead, which was not really met.
- That we would be listening to reports instead of talking to each other so I was happy it was not what I thought it would be.
- I expected more examination of our structures etc.
- Didn't give op to address items noted in the message from P about this meeting including concrete review/adjustment of committee structure & realistic goals, significant op for non- Oakwoodians to discuss at depth. Oakwood is functioning well . the rest of us are full of good will .
- A very similar meeting to last year, which was not a good experience for me.
- I wasn't sure what to expect as a new member of the West Region.
- Not sure as I was not in communication with anyone about the 'gathering'.
- Expected a focus on the chapter
- I was not sure what to expect.
- I was worried we'd be expected to deal with the proposed Regional Structure document, and I wasn't ready for that; also that it would not be a fun weekend (too work-a-holic)
- I was open to whatever happened.

Q3: How would you rate our facilitators (Mary Kay and Annette)?

Answered: 34

Skipped: 1

	UNSATISFACTORY	BELOW EXPECTATIONS	MET EXPECTATIONS	EXCEEDED EXPECTATIONS	OUTSTANDING	TOTAL	WEIGHTED AVERAGE
▼ The facilitators allowed for sufficient Dialogue.	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	21.21% 7	36.36% 12	42.42% 14	33	4.21
▼ The facilitators encouraged participation.	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	15.15% 5	39.39% 13	45.45% 15	33	4.30
▼ The facilitators helped stretch our thinking and brought out new group ideas.	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	31.25% 10	43.75% 14	25.00% 8	32	3.94
▼ The facilitators were 'real,' 'honest' and sincere.	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	2.94% 1	35.29% 12	61.76% 21	34	4.59

- They worked well together.
- Made it relaxed and easy-going
- Very good listening and moving with the responses.
- facilitators had nice hair cuts
- I was amazed at how the facilitators listened to suggestions and changed the schedule when individuals made suggestions
- I loved the non-defensiveness that allowed great flexibility in listening to where the group was and adapting to the group's needs
- Sometimes the directions got confused
- Terri Monroe's insights shared shed much light on what was happening and the facilitators responded with flexibility- rather than " sticking to the plan" . to all
- Facilitators did a great job with A difficult task and kept a good sense of humor.
- They listened to group and were willing to change planned agenda.
- They facilitated well with what they planned but not what some of us hoped for given the need and the pre-meeting letter from the PT
- Liked the way group reflection, espacio was handled.
- We are heard, then flexible and out of box gathering.
- Switched when folks asked to change the focus to ways of knowing this population of the western region.
- Annette and Mary Kay just kept it real. Good use of humor as well. Were able to go with the flow.
- They allowed us to change the agenda!!! outstanding!
- flexible you forgot flexible
- 100% flexibility!

Prayers/Liturgy	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	32.35% 11	67.65% 23	34	4.68

- Prayers/readings were not as clear and I missed out on long ones
- I loved Irma's homily and Mary's poem on Sunday. Good Energy
- I was so touched by Irma's preaching
- We did not have a chance to really understand the other 2 regions approach
- Gratitude for prayers and liturgy
- Surfacing critical issues again was redundant, time lost & seemed rather to be the moment in the weekend to move to the concrete tasks. Also if staying with this topic Why not build on the summer work and JPIC process? Also I wondered why WRCC shared but never asked committee members to spend time in review and then share.
- I thought things were well prepared and appreciated the humor and flexibility of the organizers
- Let go rigid agenda was good
- Different and hopeful

- The prayers for Saturday & Sunday mornings were superb since Irma received pages of readings! She did wonders with it! (smile)
- Top 3 critical issues is were we challenged “the plan”!! Yippee!
- I was not present for the video

Q5: How well did we do as a community in living into the intentions for the gathering?

Answered: 35

Skipped: 0

	VERY POOR	POOR	FAIR	GOOD	VERY GOOD	TOTAL
Deepen our Cor Unum	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	2.94% 1	35.29% 12	61.76% 21	34
Tap into our collective energy	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	5.71% 2	51.43% 18	42.86% 15	35
Renew our energy for mission as RSCJ	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	0.00% 0	51.43% 18	48.57% 17	35

- Leaders were not pushy but really tried to tap direction of the group.
- We need to keep moving. We have made a good start.
- For me, things got a little confusing here
- Sorry, I don't have a strong enough sense of the above areas, so won't answer
- Attentiveness to quality of listening at the tables and open session; again the intentions as articulated before – our table and others seemed ready for more concrete work but time ran out because of the general plan.
- Not urging to reporting but given good time for sharing.
- I totally lost any “intentions” other than my own, to enjoy being with my sisters.

Q6: What did you love or appreciate about the gathering?

Answered: 30

Skipped: 5

- Time being together. The ability to shift the meeting Agenda to meet the needs of those at the meeting. Our ability to listen to one another.
- Space, time, etc. for learning to know new RSCJ who have come into our lives.
- It was a good experience (high praise) from my little point of view... Thank you!
- Being sisters. Sharing life. The welcome of Oakwood.
- Openness and spirit among us.
- The leaders, my table of sisters.
- People's willingness to participate
- People really seemed to be connecting, and I think that's really important! Also there was joy in the room.
- Those who did the preparation did a fantastic job.

- Seeing and being with other RSCJ
- Eventually getting on a clear track
- Being with RSCJ Openness and flexibility of facilitators
- Being together, praying together and searching together
- We had time at tables to share with one another. I also appreciated the use of the screen so those of us who do not hear well could follow.
- I loved the conversations between and among us.
- table engagement real, willingness by many to engage; patience, good will, acceptance/appreciation of facilitators, prayer moments, 'icebreakers' with depth, visuals, etc.
- Reflection time and reporting back to the group. Way of having time to reflect on real questions
- People were engaged and seemed happy to be there. Loved the process used. It was one of the best ever of these gatherings.
- Having spent time at Oakwood recently I felt - a coming home.
- Leaders listened our need. Relaxed atmosphere allowed to be oneself and better sharing. Society is not business organization...do not forget it.
- The ability to change when it was needed! Not stuck on the "agenda", but on the present need if we are to move forward. My emergency plan of Suloy over the Hudson changed to the less dramatic to the more real task of knowing each other and moving forward together...hard work, not so dramatic!
- Time together, especially at small tables espacio flexibility of the facilitators
- Terri Monroe's intervention
- Us being together. Loved my table sisters
- My table was outstanding!
- Meeting and sharing with my Sisters
- The freedom of expression, facilitated by the focus on feelings at every stage. I actually felt relieved and relaxed by this approach.
- Gathering
- The lack of tension. Flexibility. Love!

Q7: What shifted, changed in you as a result of our gathering?

Answered: 28

Skipped: 7

- Renewed energy. Meeting members where she is at - at a given time.
- Desire to give more time to building friendships.
- The whole outcome
- More freedom to let things evolve as they will...
- Increased trust and confidence in my sisters.
- Our table is keeping in touch with one another
- The sense of the whole--ie., not just the elders, but the youngers, too.
- I've begun to understand how this can work. I feared it would end up being 3 Provinces instead of One Body
- When Terrie's question moved us in a meaningful direction.

- Not much
- hard to verbalize. I believe meetings need to be for those who want to meet over a topic, maybe across regions, maybe for action. I have a growing sense of shared leadership
- No real shift, greater appreciation of my sisters
- We really felt the desire to be One Body
- My perspective is that many were relishing time to just share at more depth etc Oakwoodians and non O together but the regional structure tasks was addressed minimally that caused my openness at the beginning to turn to restlessness and at the end disappointment. If most at Oakwood were satisfied that is a sign their elder years needs are being met. If most of non Oakwoodians were satisfied than I wonder if the extensive committees and structures are needed.
- Desire to see how each of the three regions are leading us in the direction of Council 2016
- I want to participate more actively
- Each RSCJ is so precious in unique way, and there is Cor Unum in the Heart of Jesus. Differences is a sign of richness.
- See above and willingness of both of you to change your presentation and listen to suggestions re-proceeding forward.
- Need to keep au courant about the Coordinating Council
- Old folks can think bigger and better. Old folks can get energized
- Nothing comes to mind
- To become more optimistic about our future
- Helped me to listen to my Sisters, a habit that is very useful
- The experience of taking charge of our direction for the meeting gave me great hope for the future – we can DO it! We can take charge of our lives and our future!
- Willingness to change direction.

Q8: What did you dislike about the gathering?

Answered: 27

Skipped: 8

- N/A
- At times shifting agenda was not easy for me. I like a plan and to stay with the plan.
- All was fine this time
- I have a voiced but unmet wish that the cohort rscj could have some sort of meeting within the meeting whenever we gather.
- Sound system and difficulty hearing each other at our tables
- ????
- Lack of space to move around – i.e., no path from back of room to front.
- I know that the tables were too big for those with hearing difficulties. Let's do it differently next time – no tables, just chairs.
- Nothing really
- We seem to wander looking for a point.

- So much flexibility sometimes led to confusion about the topic at hand.
- No dislike
- Not getting to the concrete tasks for refinement of regional structures; little opportunity for the non-Oakwoodians to continue our conversations on how we can network among ourselves be realistically co-responsible in working with the PT and staff on services, needs, etc.
- I was not in a good group for reflection
- It was difficult to hear with tables so close together and therefore to participate at times
- Table conversations were difficult because several did not choose to communicate
- I thought the process was very intuitive. As a sensitive I had difficulty connecting with it.
- It is not therapy session. Personal need question. We passed that stage. We need vision, passion, wide horizon.
- Difficult to hear – tables too large, speakers sometimes too soft.
- Was it too much time together?
- The sound system. They need to get that fixed! Beautiful equipment that doesn't work, really?!
- Nothing
- The meeting room was usually too noisy
- Loved all
- The tables were WAAAAAY too big; very difficult to hear each other across such distances in a crowded room
- Nothing
- My personal problem was my hearing problem. As someone noted, the large table made it difficult to hear in the small group.

Q9: If you were to describe “where we got to by the end of the gathering” what would you say?

Answered: 28

Skipped: 7

- We got to exactly where we were supposed to get...taking time to step back and reflect on where we want to go - rather than where we should be going per the Agenda.
- A desire to cultivate relationships and seeing the value of this.
- It was OPEN to the future.
- Having had good sharing, we continue forward together with our same structures.
- A greater sense of presence with each other.
- There was a good spirit in the group
- Hopefully, people did the exercise about what each one could do before the next gathering, along with what the WRCC could do
- We were moving forward...
- We realized that we don't want to write documents, but rather foster communion among us
- A better idea of where we needed to head.
- I'm too new to the region to be able to assess this

- No definite outcomes or direction but sensed a willingness to stay at the table
- I think we do not want to focus on regions but allow for more freedom and expanded communities
- Enjoying and appreciating each other; wondering how we are going to be ready for a March “evaluation” of the tentative structure. Members who are not in the 65+ group, are non Oakwoodians and still fully engaged in Society service or volunteer work where we live out our mission wonder
- There was movement ahead. Liked that Mary Kay came to reunion at Oakwood. Would like to see what the description of the Central and Eastern region looks like. Oakwood needs more preparation. We are much older and slower group.
- Still reflecting on it.
- A comment heard... I never felt so loved by my sisters!
- A focus on small groups essential
- Good laughter, better connected, relaxed, joyful and LOVE
- Realistic, more possible to move forward, lots of hope, but we need to “put our noses to the grindstone!”
- A renewed commitment to work in the Interest Groups and with the Coordinating Council in order to keep trying these experiments for ways of sharing leadership
- New groupings and feeling that folks really want to make something happen. Finally taking charge of what happens in our lives!
- We are en-route to new ways of connecting
- Satisfactory
- Independence from imposed expectations for the gather. Thank God for Terri Monroe leaping up to say no to the proverbial butcher paper & small issues groups. It was also interesting to note that 2-3 tables decided to keep meeting in the near future!! THAT says a lot about the quality of the weekend...People “connected” with each other, across age groups, across ministries, across everything, as each table was a very mixed group.
- 2 steps forward; erased steps back
- Closer union among us and a desire to keep in contact

Q10: Was the schedule too long, too short or about right?

- Thanks Mary F for coordinating the social at Vallombrosa
- I don't know if you did stuff at Vallombrosa, but we could have had some night times activities. The only thing is, I'd be too tired to participate
- Shared silence can be powerful for a grouping
- Media is well used
- Meals were excellent!
- Sorry I cannot answer any more because of eye issues
- A game of charades would have been fun
- The 5-minute share time within the prayer was too short

Q12: What new issue or question would you like to explore?

Answered: 17

Skipped: 18

- Cross regional pollination on topics
- I cannot volunteer to do more outside Oakwood...time is moving on me.
- How can the Cohort group respond to the Chapter Calls within the regional structures?
- It depends on what people are interested in. I am interested in opportunities for spiritual development. I am also interested in reading and sharing about great literature.
- Shall we have associates join us for our next gathering?
- Deeper sharing re. chapter calls across the three regions
- Nothing specific at this time I want to support ideas, movements that keep us hopeful and loving and open. I want to encourage and support new leadership as I see it emerge
- Can we or do we believe in the future of the regional structure? If so what will make them work? Continue the conversation
- I think we need to focus on being part of the Philippine Region
- With all the good will of membership, energy of facilitators & committee heads, I wonder if our slow progress is a sign that this structural way forward is not the best. I disagree with statements that the Province is too top heavy with authority, or people don't want to be co-responsible realistically.
- What are the goals of the different regions? Are we leaving something out? Are we in some way attentive to the goals of Chapter 2016
- New members to this Region have not been asked to join a group as of yet? We have at least three new arrivals...
- To get to know other RSCJs Playful day have fun together or play games. In this way we can be more connected
- Nothing new. Just get more into really learning and living shared leadership. Work with PT to "turn off" their phones and/or send folks back to regions to deal with issues
- How a commitment to mission and an outward thrust can evolve in our region
- Other than putting serious energy into getting to know each other as sisters and as human beings, I would like us to know what the Doctrine of Discovery is and was. Many still are ignorant of it; it was not taught in school. All Americans should know what it is, especially educators. A fringe benefit for myself personally would be that people would understand why I have become so supportive of the indigenous peoples of our countries.
- None I can think of.

Q13: Do you have specific personal actions, commitments you plan to take to help move us forward?

Answered: 23

Skipped: 12

- Listening to what is happening in other regions with an eye and ear to implement or not various regional committees and areas of interest; to think about how we can be collaborative and dialogical across the regions.

- Cultivate friendships
- Prayer from Oakwood
- More vocation ministry in the West
- As above
- Connecting with some nuns when I'm in SD
- Yes, fostering greater insertion of Associates into our lives and our lives into theirs
- Talk "at depth" with my sisters, individually and together about "what matters" probably respond more than initiate
- Continue the conversation
- I am connecting with Seattle, with people in the other regions and hoping to see how we can share online to deepen our Spirituality
- I am thinking about these questions...
- My honest reflections here after pondering the Strategic Plan, P and PT responsibilities in govt plan, Chap documents. Continue to suggest that the local non Oakwoodian who wish convene for prayer, sharing, regularly
- What are some suggestions of moving ahead in our new realities? Going in direction of new frontiers at this time in the Development of the Philippine Region? How will we do this?
- I want people to think about our San Diego area and write interesting 'news' for our Update. Perhaps a few articles for Update might be in order. We need to be known and loved more!
- My full-time work took all my energy. Even I wish there is a limitation with my time and energy
- Monthly communications with my table group
- International Community of Choice to meet monthly on FACETIME
- Work on website to keep info updates and fresh
- Prayer
- Make more personal contacts within my area
- Though I have to be careful not to overload myself, especially with my aging process and some memory loss, I want to be available for conversations and faith sharing with our sisters and associates and school faculties
- No

Q14: What suggestions do you have for future West Region gatherings? How can we continue to improve the ways we meet, work, and learn together?

Answered: 21

Skipped: 14

- Together, focus on a Chapter Call each quarter
- First, we need to want it and from that will flow the how
- Nothing much to offer
- Some cohort grouping within each meeting
- Look for the good

- I think some things we all need to be involved in. However, it might also be helpful to have smaller interest groupings
- Let me think about that...
- I would like to include the Associates
- Encourage getting together, at Oakwood, initiatives come “from the top” usually. To evaluate what we do and include more of us in planning or carrying out would help
- I was wary and against meeting with Oakwood but the way building the Cor Unum of the region was set up worked
- I think that only those who register and can commit to the schedule should be at the tables. They can have chairs at the back or their own tables
- When people stand to make a comment, have them give their name. Cannot know who is speaking by the seating arrangement. What are some things we will be going to do
- I do believe if we in San Diego gathered in different communities or apartments for dinner (perhaps once a month) we might move forward together faster...and closer.
- Region gathering, two hours reserve for game or fun. Our ministry is demanding and serious work every day. RSCJs have fun together would give us joyful and positive energy.
- Maybe you can gather suggestions from table groups
- May we continue to listen to one another respectfully and with attention
- None at the moment
- See all of the above
- The gathering could be two hours longer. We did not have time to end the last session satisfactorily.
- Include more fun and more faith sharing. Less “business” Less focus on issues, as we are all taking care of multitudes of issues already. That’s where our meeting this time broke down, at the “issue and butcher paper” stage - - we said NO! Terri stood up and said NO! Maura said getting to know each other is NOT NAVEL GAZING. The facilitators let us treasure this moment. Marianna applauded the facilitators for their courage in not pushing us to “issues and butcher paper” once again. Wow, it was a pivotal moment, a wonderful break-through. I am still savoring and enjoying that moment and it is what gives me hope for our future!

Q15: What specifically is important for our group to attend to in the coming year?

Answered: 22

Skipped: 13

- Continue to develop the WRCC and empower them to move forward with the development of the region – and cross-regionally
- Cultivate building relationships
- Follow the Spirit in this survey
- Thinking about the next Provincial Mandate and what we would like to ask for and support of our leadership people (PT and Regional)
- Staying engaged and present
- Communication

- Interconnectivity -i.e., keeping the connections going
- Deeper sharing re: chapter calls across the three regions
- I'm not sure, as there are practical as well as logistic areas needed attention which probably don't apply to us at Oakwood
- Building the cor unum of the region particularly as we begin to diminish in numbers. How to organize and animate life in local area. Continue conversation on shared leadership.
- Connecting among ourselves and with other regions. We did not even know about the minutes and it was hard to find the webpage.
- Get specific now about the committees What do we think. What does the Prov leadership need us to help with in service to the membership=service committees working with Prov leadership. What does the Regional need assistance with to carry out her responsibilities for the sake of the whole. Encourage/affirm local connecting mechanism for community building, addressing local issue; affirm cross region sharing on significant issues thru JPIC process just sent out; or bonding.
- How to build a growth in relationships. How to involve Seattle. Not good to have some that refuse to be part of the region.
- Share the gifts of each one. As a newbie I want to know more about the things that bring joy and life to each of us...gathering together helps that to happen
- Focus on organizing small group sharing
- With open heart and mind to give and receive
- Building up our meeting one another some way and sharing more deeply what is important
- Being in touch. Start with table groups. Go to website. Call someone. Email someone not in your community or location. Just do one little thing.
- Increase positive attitudes
- Definitely I want to hear each one's life story. That is a sine qua non for me, however long it takes. I want to get to know my sisters
- ...?...
- Communication. Find ways to connect San Diego & Seattle with the Bay Area

Q16: In what ways would you like to be involved in supporting West Region between gatherings?

Answered: 28

Skipped: 7

	NO	YES	TOTAL
Communication: support blog, website, on-going communication (Vidyo, etc.) and networking with my sisters	42.31% 11	57.69% 15	26
Social Action: providing direction for peace & justice activities and ongoing communal Dialogue opportunities	56.52% 13	43.48% 10	23
Spiritual Action: providing direction for spiritual activities and ongoing communal Prayer opportunities	28.00% 7	72.00% 18	25

- Whatever I REALLY am ABLE to do...via Oakwood – Prayer and Liturgy
- Smaller group interests
- These are all good issues, but my focus at the moment is with the Associates.
- I’m not sure how involved Oakwood can be. The table I was at will continue to connect or try to do so
- I have heard that all 3 regions have expressed the Quad meeting idea to be valuable; that rather than regionals all the time, we have dialogue and prayer gatherings, cross country at different times where people can go to the one they have time for and are drawn to.

- Are these now the new committees? Personally at 78 I am fully involved in my development service for UGK province as my way to live the Chapter calls presently and now with some health limitations to be attentive to. So I am not able this next cycle to “providing direction” for social or spiritual action but available, supportive, participate, and take initiative were possible.
- Some advance knowledge of the theme of the meeting and
- Help organize a gathering with our Sisters in the Soboba Mission???
- Thank you for generous and successful gathering
- I’ll do whatever it takes to keep us on track
- Prayer
- I enjoyed traveling to visit Rody and Sandy in Seattle and would be willing to do it again. I’m not the greatest with technology, but am a good e-mail correspondent (and telephone).

- Well done to all who planned and implemented these meetings
- Thank You
- Thanks for all your work and efforts at making this one of the best gatherings I have attended in recent memory!
- Thank you so much for all the hard work preparing and planning this meeting. I loved it and feel so grateful to be part of the West!
- I should have done this closer to the mtng time. I think my memory is shaping my answers a little differently than had I responded 8 days ago
- I was glad there wasn’t a chart of who was at which table because I could not have survived at the table which I was assigned
- To keep a sense of region, besides what we have in the PH TEAM REPORT WEEKLY and UPDATE REPORT MONTHLY, how about a regional way of sharing what is happening? Example: ask different ones of us to write” what you are doing” (this in trafficking/event at the Berkeley house/someone tutoring...etc. sharing specific stories on line and by the video if it ever gets easier...

- Thank you for organizing and leading us through the weekend, and for the thoroughness of this survey!!!!
- I was delighted with our meeting and grateful for all who worked so hard to make it possible to hear and follow
- I appreciated all that these days entailed and offered me. I think it would have been good to change tables on Sunday just so one could meet more RSCJ. In the main, the prayer, liturgy, and exercises renewed my best understandings of our direction as an RSCJ community.
- Thanks for all your good work, flexibility, sincerity, humor. This is challenging.
- Build on what you did at this meeting. It was much better than the first meeting. Work on selection of groups.
- Both Annette and Mary Kay offered a great service to their RSCJ sisters. Irma was helpful also but sometimes things seemed very rushed because of time...Do you have a copy of the song – One Body? T H A N K S
- A big THANK you
- Thanks VERY much to Mary Kay and Annette for their facilitation!
- Thanks and much kudos again to Annette (3rd time) facilitating. You are good with us and for us!
- It was a very life-giving weekend!
- I still want another “Quad” Would like to explore where and how. My handicap limits me a bit, though...especially if I have to travel by plane and cannot take my equipment with me in a car (the special chair I need is not available everywhere...one is kept for me in St. Charles and I hear that the noviceship in Chicago has some of that kind of chair...)
- Thank you so very very much
- Thank you! A very good EVALUATION EXERCISE!
